

This Way Up

Imagine a bizarre traffic accident involving a plumber's repair truck and a marching band equipment van. If you saw a group of teenagers picking through the bits and pieces that are strewn all over the highway, that's pretty much what This Way Up looks like on stage.

This Way Up is actually the Crull family: Eric and Danielle and Jax, Max and Carson, who play a type of music called "Unconventional Percussion". Their "instruments" are colorful lengths of plastic tubes called Boomwhackers and corrugated four-inch drainage pipe. Everything is tuned up to specific notes and played like a gigantic demented whacked-out pipe organ!

This Way Up plays a mixture of Christian hymns and current popular Christian music in a new and thoroughly refreshing way. The joy they take in what they are doing and the love they have as a family shines through in an uplifting and encouraging way. Their ministry and music personifies a central Christian message: Worship with whatever you have and whatever you do.
